

Lisa Bardach

Lisa Bardach is a Professor of Educational Psychology in the Department of Psychology at the University of Giessen. Lisa Bardach's research focuses on individual differences (e.g., motivation, personality, self-regulation, and cognitive abilities) and their interplay and role in individuals' learning and development. Considering that children and adolescents are growing up in increasingly culturally diverse and often unequal worlds, she is also interested in questions relating to how schools approach cultural diversity and how they can address social inequities. Further, she conducts research on digital learning and develops interventions based on digital technologies to support children's and adolescents' positive school-related development.

